The next time you feel poor,
and can't fill your gas tank,
and you hold back tears
trying to put together a grocery trip that can get you and your family through the week on just $40, remember that the stock market is at a record high and America is great again.

A guide from ladies to lady lovers

how to compliment

a woman

without being creepy

Women are not against compliments,
they're against men
forcing them to listen
and respond to them.

If you want to compliment a woman, you can't expect her to want to listen to you or respond to what you've said. You may think you're only being nice, but you are not entitled to a response, you have to understand that before complimenting someone.

How to compliment a woman without being creepy

If she doesn't want to talk to anyone, respect that!

If you see a cute girl but she's reading a book, listening to music, texting, or any other obvious sign that she's not up for talking to someone, just respect that and let her be! There are many cute people on this earth and you don't have to talk to all of them! I know you think you'll brighten her day by telling her she's beautiful, but this is not the way to do it. If it's meant to be, you'll see her again at a better time!

Be true with your intentions!

Women can see through your obvious fake excuse to flirt with her - and it almost always comes off as creepy! Don't pretend to want to help her or whatever other BS you've heard from some pick up artist, just be honest and direct, that will be much less creepy and actually quite refreshing for someone who has to deal with multiple creepy requests from men a day! Just say something like; 'hey, I know we don't know each other, but I thought you seemed really nice and I just wanted to say hi!'

Do it in the right context

There are good places to flirt and bad places to flirt. A bar: a good place to flirt. When she's at her job: a bad place to flirt. On tinder: a good place to flirt. In a support group or safe space: bad place to flirt. You might want to flirt 24/7, but not all women do, and your 'innocent' flirting, might make her feel harassed or even in danger, especially in spaces where she needs to feel safe or can't get out of (like in her workplace).

DON'T send random DMS

A random message from someone you don't know, coming to tell you how sexy you look...nahh that's not appealing to anyone. Even if you're super hot, it will always come off as desperate if you've been stalking some random girls on the internet and message her out of the blue.

Rethink what you see as a compliment.

You might really like a girl to tell you how sexy you are, but it's not always true the other way around. Remember that women have the persistent fear of sexual assault, so your 'innocent' comment about her body, might make you an instant threat. Try putting yourself in her shoes before you say something.

Do it without expectations

Any good deed should be done without expecting something back and it's the same with giving someone a compliment. You shouldn't expect her to be nice to you, to read/listen to it, to respond to it or anything. No one owes you anything and although you can hope to get something nice in return, don't expect it and don't get angry if you don't.

How to compliment a woman without being creepy

Be honest & be yourself

I know you think this one is cheesy, but if someone doesn't like who you are naturally, you're not meant to be together. Being fake, being insincere or being what some pick up artist told you to be is NOT a long term plan. Women get guys trying things with them all the time and the cheesy stuff just gets soooo creepy, so just be honest. If you want to get coffee, say it. If you just want something casual and think you could have a fun night, say that too! People will value your honesty much more than you think.

Have self respect

If someone's not interested, leave it! For her sake and yours! She doesn't deserve to be harassed and made to feel guilty or awkward and you deserve to be with someone who feels the same way about you. There are plenty fish in the sea, don't get stuck on one that doesn't want you.

If you are a Christian, and can't hear #BlackLivesMatter without feeling the need to respond with a criticism that "All Live Matter."
then crack open your Bible and hit up Luke 15

Don't have it handy? Let me summarize.

There are 100 sheep, but one goes missing.
Jesus leaves the 99 and goes after the one.

The 99: "But... what about us? Don't we matter?"

Of course the 99 still matter, but they're not the ones in danger.

The one is.

I'll say it again, #BlackLivesMatter.

"The right to vote
is precious,
almost sacred.
People fought for it,
bled for it,
died for it.
Honor their sacrifice.

Vote."

Something the “Left” desperately needs to understand, and quickly:

- 1) The future of organizing is going to be more spontaneous and decentralized (whether you like it or not).
  - 2) The goal shouldn’t be to organize others, but rather to help others organize themselves in new ways. source

Earlier this year I wrote about visa applications getting rejected for having inapplicable blanks on them. Thanks to a newly resolved FOIA suit, we now have a better sense of the scale of this policy and its consequences.
