He	Him	His	Himself	He is speaking. I listened to him. The backpack is his.
They	Them	Theirs	Themself	They are speaking. I listened to them. The backpack is theirs.
Ze	Hir/Zir	Hirs/Zirs	Hirself/ Zirself	Ze is speaking. I listened to hir. The backpack is zirs.

Problem	Correction	Reason
"transgendered" (adjective)	transgender	Only adjectives that are derived from nouns and/or verbs (unlike transgender) end in "ed."
"intersexed"	intersex	Only adjectives that are derived from nouns and/or verbs (unlike intersex) end in "ed."
"transgendered" (verb)	transition	Only verbs can have "ed" added onto the end of the word to become a participle. Transgender is an adjective, not a verb. One does not "transgender," they transition.
"a transgender," "transgenders"	a transgender person, transgender people	Transgender is not a noun. "Jake is a transgender" is not only grammatically incorrect, but can be offensive.
"sex change," "sex reassignment surgery," "gender reassignment surgery"	gender affirming surgery, genital reconstruction surgery, genital reassignment surgery	Surgery does not change one's sex or gender, only genitalia.

5 Ways to Make Schools Safer for LGBTQ Students

1

Be an activist! Speak out when someone says something discriminatory towards the LGBTQ community.

2

Start a GSA/QSA:
Having a safe space for queer students at school can save LIVES.

3

Educate Your Teachers:

A teacher who simply knows about being LGBTQ can make a world of difference for students who are gender and sexual minorities. Schedule a conference with your teacher or speak at faculty meeting days about LGBTQ issues.

4

Host an LGBTQ Panel

Panels allow students and staff to directly ask important questions to people who can educate them.

5

Introduce a Trans-Inclusive Policy:

Trans-friendly policies set fair guidelines for school staff members who may not know what to do otherwise.

Let's talk about how young autistic girls go undiagnosed because their special interests are considered too "normal."
Spoiler: That's sexism.

I lined up, organized, and collected massive numbers of Barbie dolls. I "played" this way for hours on end. I played with Barbies until the 6th grade, and I was even teased at school for it.

Lauren Melissa @autienelle · 21m

Substitute Barbies with horses, boy bands, makeup, fairies, and books. These are "girls' interests." When young girls become hyperfocused and passionate about these interests, the general public simply rolls their eyes and says, "Girls get obsessed over silly things."

A little boy spends all his days lining up legos and completing lego kits for high schoolers, and adults think, "Why doesn't he go outside and play sports? What's going on here?" A girl lines up dolls or collects 50 horse stuffed animals, adults think, "She's so silly and cute."

Autistic girls that show more "masculine" interests and traits are more likely to receive an ASD diagnosis. Receiving support is directly related to contradictions of perceived notions of masculine/feminine. There's something "wrong" with the tomboy or the less sporty boy.

Neurodiversity underscores the uniqueness and inherent value of all children and adults across lines of difference--gender, ability, perceived intelligence, race, etc. Gendering autistic traits only emboldens stereotypes, promotes masking, and reinforces conditional love.

Hi friends, I want to share with you that I am trans, my pronouns are he/they and my name is Elliot. I feel lucky to be writing this. To be here. To have arrived at this place in my life.

I feel overwhelming gratitude for the incredible people who have supported me along this journey. I can't begin to express how remarkable it feels to finally love who I am enough to pursue my authentic self. I've been endlessly inspired by so many in the trans community. Thank you for your courage, your generosity and ceaselessly working to make this world a more inclusive and compassionate place. I will offer whatever support I can and continue to strive for a more loving and equal society.

I also ask for patience. My joy is real, but it is also fragile. The truth is, despite feeling profoundly happy right now and knowing how much privilege I carry, I am also scared. I'm scared of the invasiveness, the hate, the "jokes" and of violence. To be clear, I am not trying to dampen a moment that is joyous and one that I celebrate, but I want to address the full picture. The statistics are staggering. The discrimination towards trans people is rife, insidious and cruel, resulting in horrific consequences. In 2020 alone it has been reported that at least 40 transgender people have been murdered, the majority of which were Black and Latinx trans women. To the political leaders who work to criminalize trans health care and deny our right to exist and to all of those with a massive platform who continue to spew hostility towards the trans community: you have blood on your hands. You unleash a fury of vile and demeaning rage that lands on the shoulders of the trans community, a community in which 40% of trans adults report attempting suicide. Enough is enough. You aren't being "cancelled," you are hurting people. I am one of those people and we won't be silent in the face of your attacks.

I love that I am trans. And I love that I am queer. And the more I hold myself close and fully embrace who I am, the more I dream, the more my heart grows and the more I thrive. To all trans people who deal with harassment, self-loathing, abuse and the threat of violence every day: I see you, I love you and I will do everything I can to change this world for the better.

Thank you for reading this.

All my love,

Elliot

Dear Santa Claus,

asking you for a Lady GaGa doll.
If i see any baseball related shit under the tree I will have no choice but to hunt you down like the ignorant
reindeer fucker you are,
and break your fat

Don't make me come to your house.

Merry Christmas!
